Advisory Committee Report

Chair Lisa Savoy

The Advisory Committee has not met as of yet.

Educational Committee

Chair Ashley Minner

Chair Ashley Minner spoke new committee members being recruited, and they join through a formal process that involves nomination and review. Chair Minner has heard back from the new contact at MSDE, Mr. Bruce Lesh. He is trying to locate materials generated by the MCIA/MSDE collaboration. All he's found so far are some lesson plans for a 2012 event. Gave contact for a teacher involved at the time, Ms. Mary Davis. She noted that Commissioner Rico Newman is working on a system to apprise Maryland's tribal communities via MCIA of education offerings throughout the State, such as Native Studies courses. Dr. Dennis Seymour will share the Native Studies curriculum that is in place at CCBC. It was noted that 1/3 of Indian student population from Baltimore City meets the definition of "homeless." These same students get to college and find themselves with no resources. Dr. Seymour has been providing assistance to these students at CCBC and connecting them on individual basis to resources. Trainings for teachers at NMAI interest are very low. Trains are on Saturdays at NMAI at a nominal fee. Title VII Indian Education Baltimore City's Program has relocated from Patterson High School to the Baltimore American Indian Center; Charles County's coordinator is still on maternity leave; Montgomery County no longer has an Indian Education program. Chair Minner and Administrative Director Colston plan to meet with Baltimore County Public Schools representative to encourage an application this year. Any other districts in the State with 10 or more Indian students should consider applying. A former Title VII Indian Education program student from Baltimore City has been chosen to participate in the “My Brother’s Keeper” Program at the White House.

Chair Ashley Minner has been contacted by a White House representative in reference to Native high school students in the State of Maryland. Will advise as things develop.

Commissioner Robert Killen

Budget and Finance Committee

Commissioner Robert Gajdys noted that with Business Committee Member Rico Newman a discussion was held per referral from MCIA Chair Savoy for the Business Committee to determine a source of funds to develop means for Native communities to promote and sustain their presence in the State of Maryland. He noted that pages 51 thru 56 Maryland Register Volume 37, Issue 16, July 30, 2010 denoting regulations pertaining to a grants program administered in a partnership Maryland Historical Trust and the African American Commission under the authority of COMAR 13B.02.04. Proposal for a similar Grant Funding Program be established to make available to State, County Government and Native non-profit groups means to develop and administer programs and projects relative to Maryland Native history, culture, traditions, language, education and economic development to empower Maryland Native communities that they may pursue means in promoting long term community capacity and empowerment. The next step is to acquire State Senate and/or House support for legislation to this end.
